church for many years, Monday said another church will be constructed at the site as soon as funds are available. He added that bricks from the church entrance, shown in a pile, will be sold or auctioned to help raise money for a new church. Perniciaro provided county manpower and equipment to remove debris resulting from the fire and leveled the ground. (Staff photo by Wayne Ducomb Jr.)

Hancock taxes to generate some $4.1 million

Supervisors reduce millage, but county revenues increase

By WAYNE DUCOMB JR.
The Hancock County Board of Supervisors Wednesday authorized a 1982-83 tax millage which is lower than last year.

Last year the supervisors authorized 69.10 mills in taxes countywide which represents $4,007,800 in revenues. Millage is levied on vehicle licenses, mobile homes, public utilities, and real and personal property.

The board's Wednesday action establishes 69 mills which roughly represents $4,140,000 in revenues from countywide taxes.

In addition, two mills will be levied in the recently established East Hancock Fire Protection District area to fund its Volunteer Fire Department, and in the Diamondhead Fire Protection District and Kiln Water and Fire Protection District.

Projected dollar totals resulting from tax collections in the fire districts were not available.

Although millage is reduced, funding for several county departments will be increased because the County Port and Harbor Commission's allotment was reduced.

Mike Necaise, county chancery clerk, Wednesday explained the commission's millage was reduced because revenues from that agency have increased and state law regulates all government organizations to a maximum of 10 percent in annual budget hikes.

The chancery clerk stated millage increases include the County Youth Court from 25 mills to 45, Hancock and Gulf Regional Planning Commissions from .50 to .90, County Park Commission from 25 to 55.

He further explained this year one mill represents about $60,000 in revenues. One mill last year generated

BACK TO WORK—Bay St. Louis Mayor Larry Bennett sits at his desk Monday after returning to work for several hours daily following a recent illness which required hospitalization. Bennett said doctors attributed the illness to a high cholesterol level and stress. (Staff photo by Brent Macey)

Bay half-cent sales tax to be discontinued Sept. 30

By BRENT MACEY

A half-cent sales tax which citizens of Bay St. Louis have been paying since Sept. 1, 1979 will be discontinued Sept. 30, 1982.

The news greeted Bay St. Louis Mayor Larry Bennett when he returned to his office Monday following several weeks of illness requiring hospitalization.

Bennett noted that he received a letter signed by W.R. Allison, president of Merchants Bank and Trust Company, explaining that Merchants Bank, which handles the account, "will have sufficient funds on hand to pay the city's loan from Merchants and Hancock Banks, totalling $461,000 plus interest."

"Collections of the sales tax should be stopped on Sept. 30, 1982," Allison wrote.

The letter also explains that any additional money, after notes and interest have been paid, will be forwarded to the City of Bay St. Louis General Fund.

Bay St. Louis City Clerk Eddie Favre stated the exact amount of money which the city may receive will not be known until November.

He noted that local merchants have been sending the sales tax money directly to the State Tax Commission which in turn forwards the money to Merchants Bank and Trust.

Favre said a two month lapse occurs before the bank receives the money from the state.

H.E. Chamblee, director of the Bureau of Revenue with the Mississippi State Tax Commission, has sent letters to all businesses which have been charging the additional one-half cent sales tax, Favre said.

The letter states, "The special tax of one-half of one percent...will no longer be collected from consumers after Sept. 30, 1982."

Favre noted that only interest on two loans totalling $461,000 has been paid since the loans—$230,000 from Hancock Bank and $231,000 from Merchants Bank—were made in 1979.

However, enough money should be accumulated by November to pay off both the loans completely, he said.

The sales tax was originally imposed after the city was sued for failing to post signs on the Uman Avenue "Pier warning swimmers of possible dangers of diving."

A suit was filed by the parents of Jimmy Ray Warner, who died several years after he was injured when he dove into shallow water off the pier.

Superintendent admits policy breach

Black teacher accuses leaders of discrimination

By WAYNE DUCOMB JR.

A black teacher charged Bay St. Louis Municipal Separate School District administrators with employment discrimination at a District Board of Trustees meeting Monday night.

Howard Sheppard, North Bay Elementary School's music instructor, reported notice of a position vacancy for a Bay Junior High School band director, who also would act as a Bay Senior High School assistant band director, was not posted at schools as mandated by written district policy until he complained to administrators.

About 12 blacks entered the meeting room at Bay Senior High School just before Sheppard's address and left after the presentation.

Sheppard noted he has taught in the district for eight years and is the only teacher in the system who possesses state certification in instrumentation who has applied for the position.

He applied for a 1978 assistant band director opening and a 1979 band director position vacancy.

"I feel like I've been dealt with unjustly and unfairly. I feel like I've been hurt and feel I have been stepped upon," he stated.

Sheppard said he inquired about the recent opening Sept. 2 in a discussion with J.D. McCullouch, superintendent of education, who said there was nothing he could do and referred the teacher to W.J. Cameron, junior high principal.

The teacher said Cameron evaded discussing why notice for the position opening was not posted, but stated he had searched everywhere for a replacement.

Sheppard reported when he asked why district files were not checked to find a qualified person for the job, Cameron "used another statement."

"Cameron questioned me about certification and my qualifications as a junior high band director," he stated.

The teacher said he was later confronted by McCullouch at the school, informed the job vacancy notice had been posted and requested to meet about the job.

Sheppard reported after he filled out a form requesting inclusion in the Board of Trustees' agenda that McCullouch said the matter would have to be settled before the meeting.

"I said this matter should be put before the board," Sheppard stated.

Sheppard said Cameron has already interviewed applicants named Bean and Pearson for the position.

Trustee Maurice Singleton, the only black board member, asked Sheppard if he was ever interviewed for the job.

The teacher replied, "I think I was. He (Cameron) asked me what my certification number was and said he would have to talk to Glen Page (the band director)."

Singleton also asked Sheppard if he had filed an application for the position.

The teacher replied he applied for the job in 1979 when he was interviewed by Cameron and Principal Robert Magee of the high school.

Sheppard said he was never informed if he had been selected for the position or not.

When asked by Walter Turcotte, board president, why the vacancy was not posted, McCullouch explained he had not decided if the position would be filled because "the entire faculty" felt Page could perform both jobs.

McCullouch said he then decided to hire a junior high director after three or four conferences with Page and several telephone calls from patrons objecting to a lack of a junior high music instructor.

The superintendent said he instructed Cameron to begin interviews for the position, but at that time failed to direct principals to post a notice due to a hectic schedule.

"I'll take fully the responsibility that the notice was not posted," McCullouch stated.

The superintendent said he later telephoned all school principals to direct them to post the vacancy notice at all schools.

McCullouch reported he has received no recommendations for the job and Cameron said applications for the position are being accepted.

Trustee James Ginn asked Cameron if an application was taken from Sheppard.

The principal replied he didn't think an application was necessary due to Sheppard's present position in the system and the music instructor would be considered for the job.

Sheppard asked the board why he would not be hired and Turcotte replied, "As soon as recommendations come from Mr. Mack (McCullouch) the board will know."

"When he will recommend someone I don't know. We can't give an answer to that," he stated.

Singleton added, "There's nothing the board can do until we have a recommendation."

Turcotte stated, "I would like to emphasize at this time that administrators carry out policies to the full extent."

McCullouch added, "This has been a policy for two-three years, but this time I didn't follow it."

In other business at the 7:30 p.m. meeting at the superintendent's office at the high school, the board:

—Approved increases in all teacher pay supplements except for the baseball coach as recommended by McCullouch to bring the pay for instructing extra-curricular activities to the same levels as other nearby school districts. The increases will hike the district's budget some $2,900;

—Accepted a lone bid of $128 from Raymond Powell of Biloxi for an inoperable district school bus;

—Heard a report from McCullouch that district student enrollment is 1,965 compared to 1,949 reported one year ago.

He said the current figure represents school enrollment figures of 493 at North Bay, 252 at Waveland Elementary School, 560 at the junior high and 660 at the senior high.

The superintendent reported some 207 youths are enrolled in the ninth grade alone; —Discussed changing positions of security lights at the district's school bus yard on Carroll Avenue next to the junior high. Trustee Cyril Glover and Ginn reported one spotlight is shining directly into nearby resident Earl Lizana's bedroom window and should be adjusted to remedy the problem.

Hancock CD, Red Cross offering nuclear war shelter, survival class

By WAYNE DUCOMB JR.

Hancock County Civil Defense and Red Cross officials are urging residents to dig in and learn how to survive in the event of a nuclear war.

Fear of the big one may sound like warnings from the early 1960's, but Robert Clark of Clermont Harbor says local CD and Red Cross officials are taking nuclear war seriously due to the United States' increased defense spending and top-level talks about "limited nuclear war" which he feels is a ridiculous concept.

"I believe it (nuclear war) will happen. We have to get across to the public that our lack of a radiation protection plan is a serious problem and we have to deal with it," he states.

Clark is the county radiological defense officer and instructor who is spearheading an ongoing battery of classes for nuclear fallout shelter managers for Hancock and residents to learn how to detect radiation.

Many other Hancock residents appear to share Clark's fear. Some 20 residents representing schools, churches, fire departments, cities and businesses attended a recent shelter manager's class offered by the civil defense and Red Cross.

He says those residents will receive

PRINTED CHINA

It is not known when the first printed china was made, but historians feel reasonably sure it was not until the third quarter of the 18th century. In the middle of that century, the making of decals for decoration came into vogue in England. It was natural that the many china makers there experiment with the process of decorating ceramics in this manner. However, the first work came out very smudged and illegible. It was not until the 1770s that Thomas Turner at the Caughley Works perfected the printing of china by means of decals so that it would rival the hand work which had been done until then. He was the first to make complete dinnerware sets, decorated in this manner. He is best known for his Salopian ware which is in grey and yellow, very highly decorated with buildings, trees, etc. Naturally, other potters took up the challenge but none could match his work. It was during this period, late in the 18th and early 19th centuries that the now famous "flow blue" china was made, so named because the printed colors ran on the clay before and during firing. Hand decoration was still the order of the day until the industrial revolution set in about 1825, and better means of printing on china were developed. We picture a plate made by the Royal Doulton Company which is still working. This company began making printed wares quite early and is well known for its decorative and commemorative work in this medium. This plate is one of a humorous series, and collectors like to collect all 12. Many such series were made for institutions, to reflect humor, love and honor, etc., and were quite popular late in the last century. The historical blue plates, popular between 1820 and 1840 are all printed wares.

Cooking up a storm

By Katy McGuire Caire

The Welsh Rabbit, it is said, is the oldest known cooked dish in the world, first stirred up over an open hearth many, many years ago in Wales, when meat was scarce and the men of the family went a-hunting rabbits in the fields. Oftentimes they came home empty-handed, outrun by the quarry, so it was up to the womenfolk to cook up a hearty and satisfying substitute for the elusive hare the hunters had failed to catch.

The disappointed housewife, so the story goes, chopped up a hunk of cheese, placed it in the sturdy iron pot hanging from the cranes above the hearth, then hung strips of bacon from the cranes to let the drippings mix with the bubbling cheese. When the cheese was melted, she served the "Welsh Rabbit" with great chunks of fresh made bread and a not-to-be-repressed wifely smirk at her husband's expense.

According to another tale, it is said that one evening at a banquet a Welsh chieftain, seeing that the meat was almost gone, rushed in distress to his cook, asking that a substitute be created. The resourceful cook quickly put together melted cheese and toasted bread, informing the guests that this was a "Welsh Rabbit" and the name stuck.

Whatever the source of inspiration, the Welsh Rabbit — please don't get fancy and call it "Rabbit" as some do — has been a flavorful dish for luncheon, supper or midnight snack, whether at the kitchen table or as the star of a festive candlelit buffet.

Webster's Dictionary tells us that this is "a dish made of melted cheese, also a joking term like the 'Cape Cod Turkey' (which is codfish) and that through failure to recognize the joke, is too often modified in cookbooks to Rabbit."

However you spell it — or misspell it, Welsh Rabbit is tasty, whether you serve it simply over toast points, or add variations to the theme. At our house, we sometimes add shrimp to the Rabbit, or crumbled bacon or chopped tomatoes.

At other times I use the Rabbit as a topping for chicken, turkey or ham. You'd be surprised what a blanket of Welsh Rabbit can do for those tired slices of chicken left over in the refrigerator when unexpected company arrives at supertime.

The Rabbit, however, is usually served over toast points — and please toast the bread in a hot oven until it's brown and dry so that it won't turn rubbery when you pour the Rabbit over. I prefer French bread, toasted, then charred a bit over an open flame.

Tired beer is an essential ingredient of the Rabbit, but if you haven't thought to open the beer several hours ahead of time, just use fresh-opened beer or omit it.

Anyway, grate, shred or dice a pound of good, sharp cheese of your choice (I like a sharp cheddar that all but bites you), the better the cheese, the better the Rabbit. Dump the cheese into a double boiler or heavy skillet or chafing dish. Add a generous dash of Worcestershire sauce and hot pepper sauce, about a half-teaspoon of dry mustard, dashes of cayenne pepper and about half a cup of beer.

Stir constantly over low, low heat with a wooden spoon, as the cheese melts and mingles with the seasonings. When it's all creamy-smooth, your Rabbit's done...or blanket slices of ham or chicken with the Rabbit and run under the broiler a minute or so until puffy and browned. (Serves four).

Survival

state certification as shelter managers.

Robert Boudin, Hancock CD director, told the County Board of Supervisors at a Wednesday special meeting that brochures explaining procedures citizens should follow in the event of a nuclear attack, fire, tornado or hurricane are being distributed to students at all local schools.

He noted the brochure also contains telephone numbers residents may call in the event of an emergency.

Boudin urged local residents to read the brochure and then keep it near a telephone.

Civil defense plans as early as last year called for all Hancock residents to seek shelter from radiation at the National Space Technology Laboratories, but Clark notes emergency coordination conflicts among various agencies there scrapped that plan and local residents must come up with their own defense facilities.

Clark says Hancock is a government-declared low risk area, but due to that classification the county will see an influx of refugees from Harrison County and Louisiana in the event of a nuclear attack.

Schools and other large buildings will be utilized as shelters, but these buildings will need extensive modifications to make them effective against radioactive fallout, he reports.

The radiological officer revealed many north Hancock residents have constructed storm shelters which can be utilized as fallout refuges if the owners know how to equip these structures.

"People need to know how to get contaminated dust off their bodies and filter air to remove radioactive particles for breathing," he states.

Clark notes underground fallout shelters are not feasible in southern Hancock due to relatively high underground water tables, but says effective above-ground facilities can be constructed by following federal guidelines.

"Radiation can't be seen or felt. You need instruments to detect it and know how to operate these devices, but we have to get our residents organized to establish monitoring areas," he states.

The radiological officer says the next classes explaining how to deal with nuclear contamination are slated Nov. 22 and 23 from 6 p.m. until 10 p.m. at the CD office at the Valena C. Jones Complex at the corner of Booker Street and Old Spanish Trail in Bay St. Louis. The public is invited to attend the free classes.

Clark also reports he will schedule special classes for any business or school interested in training employees in radiological monitoring.

He says many people believe protection from a nuclear war is the same as hurricane protection—pack your bags and leave.

But he stresses this is definitely not the case and residents must protect themselves here.

"Unfortunately, right now we are not prepared and we can't expect institutions like schools to undertake costly remodeling projects," he states.

Clark says the radiological course teaches individuals how to detect radiation and know when contamination levels are low enough so a person can leave a shelter.

The course is accredited by the Federal Emergency Management Agency in Mississippi.

Jay Marsh is also a course instructor and radiological officer for Hancock.

Clark hopes the county will consider constructing a large fallout shelter underneath a new Courthouse.

Individuals attending the recent shelter managers class include Gregory Blackwell, Shelton Bermond Jr., Michael J. Laneaux and Capt. Mike Willumits, all of the Bay St. Louis Fire Department; Jim Odom of WXGR Radio in the Bay; Eva Shea, Pere Cabibi, Stan Weidman and Thomas P. O'Brian, all of St. Clare Catholic School in Waveland.

Also, Clarice Gustin of the Hancock Chamber of Commerce; Rev. Charles Johnson of Christ Episcopal Church; Dominic Valachi, Gilbert and Sharon Tasso, and Charles and Carol Jackson, all of Gulfview Elementary School in the Lakeshore Community; Shirley Cox of the City of Waveland; Thomas Bilbo of Hancock North Central School; and Mary Caillier of the Hancock Red Cross.

The Bay High Tigers with a 2-0 record will get the real test tomorrow night when they visit Pearl River Central.

The Tigers sank the Pass Christian Pirates last Friday 32-7 with a very explosive offense.

Coach Snuffy Smith has the Tigers rolling and we need a large following of supporters to go to Carriere Friday night.

Pearl River put the clamps on St. Stanislaus last Friday in a 20-0 romp at Rock-A-Chaw stadium, so the game with Bay High will be a real test.

Stanislaus will visit Mobile County, Ala. Friday, seeking their first victory of the season.

The Rock offense which was active in their first game could not get rolling against Pearl River and Coach Vernon Powell hopes to bring a victory home.

The Hancock Hawks, who were shocked last Friday by Forrest County 24-3, will host Stone County Friday night.

We are sure Coach Irvin Farve has been working the Hawks real hard this week in preparation for the Tomcats.

The games between the Hawks and Tomcats over the past years have been thrillers, and tomorrow's contest should not be any different.

The Pass Christian Pirates like the Rock-A-Chaws are a young team and stand a slim chance against d'Iberville who will be visitors.

Coach Bob Lumpkin will have to pull all the 'rabbits' out of the hat for the Pirates to take the Warriors.

So, your teams will be playing this Friday, and we hope to see you at the games.

Emergency Medicine Week observance set

The American College of Emergency Physicians is observing this week as Emergency Medicine Week.

A group spokesman said the observance has been set for Sept. 12-18, to provide an opportunity for the public to learn more about this important aspect of health care.

"As the newest medical specialty, emergency medicine is the practice of treating life or limb-threatening illnesses and injuries requiring immediate attention," stated Dr. William Bradford of Waveland, emergency room physician at Hancock General Hospital in Bay St. Louis.

"Emergency physicians are specialists who provide this treatment," said Bradford, "as well as aiding all other patients who seek medical care in an emergency department."

"The severity and extent of all patients' illnesses and injuries are evaluated in the emergency department here at Hancock General," stated Bradford, "and patients with life or limb-threatening illnesses or injuries are seen first, which may result in a delay for a patient with a sprained ankle."

Emergency physicians undertake extensive training in emergency medical care, Bradford noted.

The American Board of Emergency Medicine administers a comprehensive certifying examination to emergency physicians who have been trained and prepared to enter the field of emergency medicine, he continued.

The board certifying examination was first offered in 1980, and there are currently 684 board certified emergency physicians in the United States.

Emergency physicians must also participate in continuing education programs, which enable them to keep abreast of the most current advances in health care, Bradford elaborated.

The emergency department at Hancock General Hospital is staffed 24 hours a day, seven days a week with physicians and nurses specially trained in emergency care, he pointed out.

MISSISSIPPI TREASURY REPORT

Bill Cole, State Treasurer

UNCLAIMED PROPERTY LAW

Mississippi in July became the 49th state to enact the Uniform Unclaimed Property Act which will be administered by the State Treasurer's Office.

State Treasurer Bill Cole reports his office is currently proceeding with plans for the administration of the Act.

"We have a twofold task of first, insuring that all institutions covered by the new law are aware of its provisions and requirements; and second, of acquainting the public with the new law and the possibilities that they may have funds which are reported as unclaimed by various institutions that they may be entitled to but were unaware of their existence."

Cole said that each year millions of dollars throughout the country in dormant or lost accounts go unclaimed.

Unclaimed property constitutes any financial asset held by an institution covered by the Act that has had no activity by its owner for a 7-year period of time. This includes savings accounts, checking accounts, unpaid wages or commissions, uncashed dividends, customer deposits or overpayments, certificates of deposit, credit balances, refunds, money orders, paid up life insurance policies, uncashed death benefit checks.

"Many people have bank accounts, savings accounts, or insurance policies that they or a relative acquired but long ago misplaced or failed to tell anyone about. People would be surprised how often this has happened."

"The State of Mississippi is trying to return these funds to the rightful owner. The unclaimed property law provides the mechanism for citizens to determine if they are the owners of heirs to funds currently held by various institutions or companies as unclaimed property.

Under the new law banks, savings and loans, utilities, and other companies are required to file a report with the State Treasurer by November 1 listing all intangible property that they may be holding which has remained unclaimed for a period of seven years. Insurance companies must file a report by May 1.

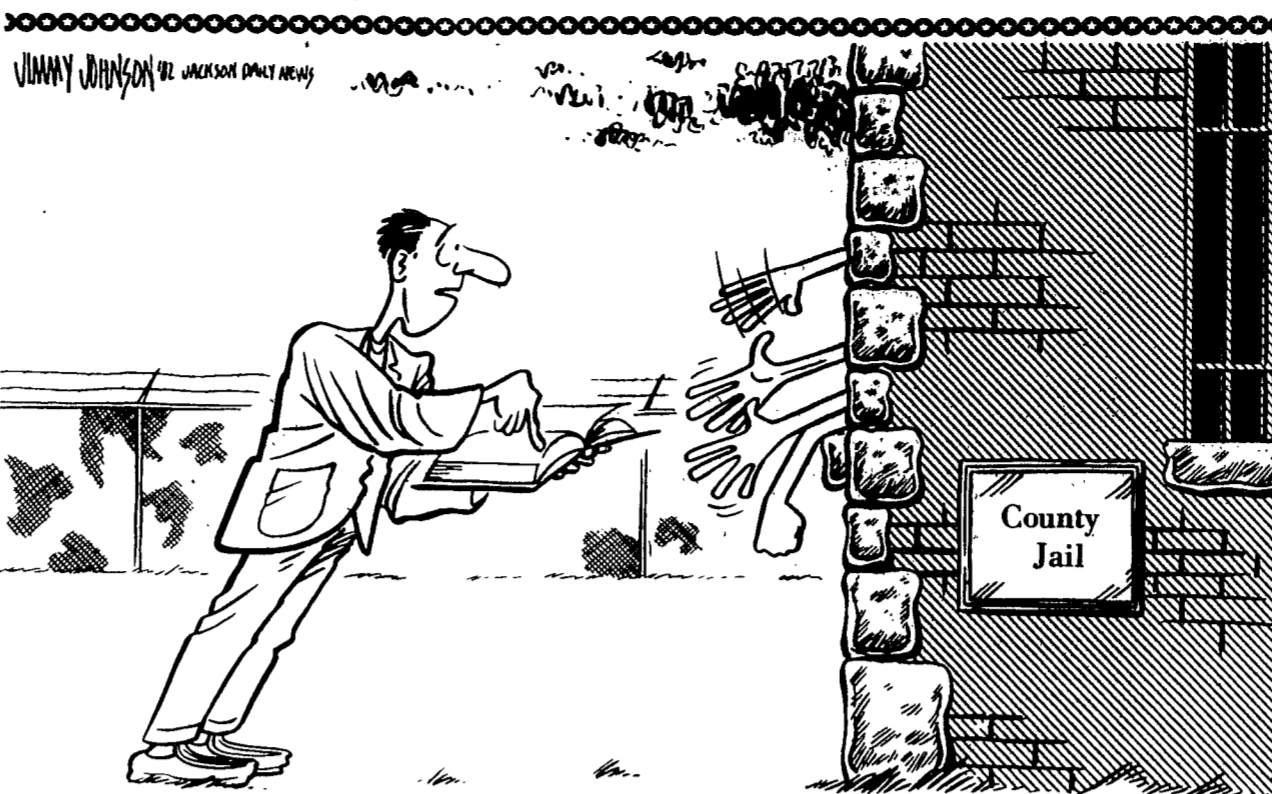

"Each institution is first required to attempt to locate the owner to make him aware of his property. After that has failed, then the property is reported to the State," Cole said.

"The State Treasurer will then mail a notice to each address known and also publish the names in the newspaper in an attempt to let people know that they may be entitled to certain unclaimed funds. At this point all unclaimed funds reported are remitted to the State."

"The law is meant to provide one source for citizens to check to determine if they have any unclaimed funds either as direct owner or heir to which they may be entitled without the necessity of contacting each and every bank and insurance company."

Cole stated that the state never assumes ownership of any of these funds but rather holds them in custody available for claim by the rightful owner.

"After these reports are received in November, any citizen can contact the State Treasurer's Office to check and determine if they may have any unclaimed funds reported under their name."

Small-business Angle

by Wilson S. Johnson

IRS EXEMPT FROM EQUAL ACCESS TO JUSTICE LAW

There was a time when a small-business person or a private citizen had little hope of challenging a government finding against him. If cited for violation of a federal regulation or law, he or she would probably pay the fine rather than spend money for a lawyer to fight the charges.

Many small-business people with whom I have talked say that while they knew they were not guilty of violating a law, they just couldn't afford the time and money to fight government agents — inspectors from OSHA, the Environmental Protection Agency or even IRS.

After many years of hard lobbying by the National Federation of Independent Business, working with legislators of both political parties, the Equal Access to Justice Act was signed by President Jimmy Carter in the fall of 1980 and became law in October 1982.

"Equal access to justice" means that if you are cited for a violation by a federal agency, you can take the agency to court. If you win, the government pays reasonable lawyers' fees and court costs.

It also means that the burden of proof is on the government — not the taxpayer — to establish that there is a legitimate reason for the citation.

The law was a major victory for small business. But now that victory is tarnished as a result of the all-night stampede to pass the co-called tax reform act (really one of the largest tax increases in history).

House-Senate conferees exempted the Internal Revenue Service from the provisions of the Equal Access law. The burden of proof in tax cases is back on the taxpayer.

The law had limited applicability to IRS even before this latest fiasco. Tax court proceedings were considered administrative procedures and exempt from equal access provisions. The accused taxpayer had to challenge the IRS in U.S. District Court — and win — to recover legal fees. But it was a start.

Now all of that has been undone. In 1977, the Commission on Federal Paperwork reported that the Internal Revenue Service accounted for 70 percent of the paperwork burden on small business.

The impatient demands of the IRS; the arrogant, "star chamber" accusatory process; and the devastating effect a decision can have on a business have sent cold chills up the spine of many a tough small-business person.

Now, without any hearings by congressional committees and without any opportunity for discussion in the House of Representatives or the Senate, the IRS is immune from the provisions of the Equal Access of Justice Act.

That means that the incentive to move with caution and be certain the taxpayer is indeed in violation of the law has been removed.

The IRS will once again be free to operate outside the glare of publicity surrounding expensive challenges from taxpayers.

There is much to correct in the tax bill passed by Congress in August, but until IRS is forced to comply with Equal Access, there will be no recourse for small-business owners and individual taxpayers.

(Wilson S. Johnson is president of the National Federation of Independent Business, representing more than half a million small-business men and women.)

CONSUMER REPORT

Attorney General Bill Allain reports he will intervene in the Mississippi Valley Gas Company rate increase matter on behalf of consumers who are customers of Mississippi Valley Gas Company.

Allain said, "I do not believe that Mississippi Valley Gas is entitled to any rate increase at this time."

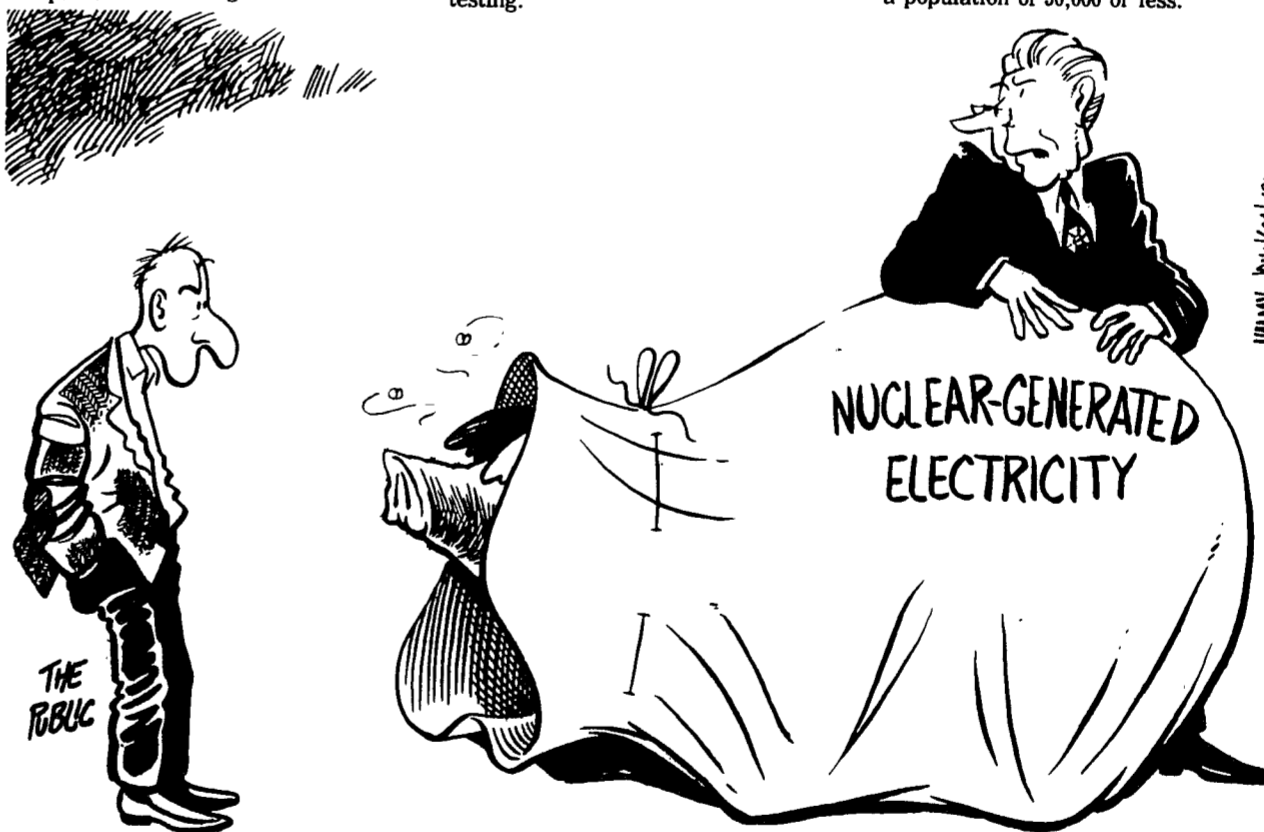

Continuing, Allain said, "Although this rate increase is not as great as others, when added to the other utility rate increases it is more than our people can pay."

"The major utilities are draining the very life out of our state and insuring that our citizens remain on the bottom of the rung economically for years in the future. It appears that all utility companies are seeking a rate increase before the legislature, during the next session, can do anything about utility reform," he explained.

Allain, who is already opposing recent rate increases requested by South Central Bell, Mississippi Power and Light, and Mississippi Power, said he "will continue to fight utility rate increases in Mississippi and will submit certain recommendations to the legislature which could lead to decreases in utility rates rather than increases."

In conclusion, Allain said, "The people of Mississippi who are struggling just to make ends meet are sick and tired of having their hard earned dollars taken away from them by the utility companies and are beginning to fight back by organizing and protesting."

"WHAT DO YOU MEAN YOU'RE NOT SURE YOU WANT HIM? YOU ALREADY BOUGHT HIM!"

Progress has been made in recent years to provide relief for those who must negotiate the complex world of government regulations.

This is especially true for business, both large and small, which must be careful in dealings with federal, state, and local rule-makers. It's been widely established that many of the regulations cut deeply into the ability of a business to survive, let alone make a profit.

But there have been encouraging signals from some sectors of government that genuine efforts will be made to cut this burdensome problem of rule-making. The Mississippi Economic Council welcomes these efforts and hopes they will become accepted policy at all levels of government.

In an effort to assist Mississippi business in its relationship with regulatory agencies, the MEC is developing a directory of laws and agencies affecting business. Various state agencies are cooperating with the Council in preparation of materials for the publication.

Part of the work of the MEC's General Committee on State and Local Government, the directories are scheduled for completion later this year.

The directories should prove to be a valuable source for new and existing businesses.

NEWS FROM THE GOVERNOR'S OFFICE

Governor William Winter initiated a series of nine regional education forums last week in an effort to move Mississippi ahead in educational standards and per capita income.

Winter tied increased income for Mississippians to education saying, "if per capita income rises and the number of welfare recipients declines, it will be because we increase the level of education — there is no question about it."

"People can't be educated unless they go to school," he added, labeling it a scandal that "Mississippi has a 42 percent drop-out rate compared to the national average of 10 percent."

To improve education Winter outlined the proposals he plans to present to a special session of the legislature in November. Those proposals include a compulsory school attendance law "to reduce substantially our excessive drop-out rate;" establishment of a program of early childhood education; increased teacher salaries; improved curriculum to enable students to compete for high-tech jobs; and refinement of the teacher certification process.

The first two forums gave added momentum to Governor Winter's education initiatives.

Some 2,500 northeast Mississippians attended the first forum in Oxford and gave their enthusiastic and overwhelming endorsement to the governor's proposals.

Similar support was generated at forums in Vicksburg, Columbus, and Greenville.

Upcoming public forums will be held in Jackson at Siwell Jr. High on Sept. 21 at 7 p.m.; in Laurel at R.H. Watkins High on Sept. 23 at 7 p.m.; in McComb at Denham Jr. High on Oct. 5 at 7 p.m.; in Meridian at Meridian High on Oct. 12 at 7 p.m.; and in Pascagoula at Mississippi Gulf Coast Jr. College's Jackson County Campus at Gautier on Oct. 19 at 7 p.m.

The Department of Planning and Policy of the Governor's Office of Federal-State Programs has received 237 Community Development Block Grant applications requesting more than $75 million. The state has only $19 million, approximately 25 percent of the amount requested, available for funding.

The Community Development Block Grant Program provided grants to local governments for community development activities in areas having a population of 50,000 or less.

Telephone company promises appeal

South Central Bell reports it will appeal the order by the Mississippi Public Service Commission which denied with the company's requested $98.2 million rate hike.

"Even though appeals are costly and often lengthy, we have been left with no choice other than to file an appeal," South Central Bell Vice President J.N. McGowen stated.

"We feel the decision rendered by the commission was totally unjustified and ignored the evidence presented in the case which indicated that the company was entitled to substantial additional revenues," McGowen said.

McGowen said much is at stake in the decision to appeal.

"We need to maintain good telephone service for existing customers," McGowen said, "to plan for future growth and expansion, and to maintain an adequate and competent work force."

"We are in a growing sunbelt state and cannot afford to accept an order that would affect the programs necessary to keep up with the growth and demand we know will be there. We are not a stop-and-go business, and we cannot make our decisions as if we were," McGowen said.

Havens discusses phone rate case

Southern District Commissioner Lynn Havens, chairman of the Mississippi Public Service Commission, said a $98.2 million rate increase requested by South Central Bell was denied by a unanimous vote of the commission.

Havens stated that since coming on the commission in 1980 he believed this was one of the most difficult cases that he has reviewed.

The economic condition and unemployment situation made it even more difficult, but he stated he was elated over a unanimous decision by the commission.

In reaching the final decision, Havens stated that the burden of proof rested upon South Central Bell. The evidence and the facts did not prove the need for additional revenues.

The main reasons that the company used in seeking additional revenues were inflation, investors incentives and uncertainties, he claimed.

Havens said, "It was very clear to me that the company had not been able to read that inflation is decreasing and that no rate increase would ever be justified on uncertainties.

"There is no one dealing with more uncertainties now than the consumers trying to meet their financial obligations."

Havens stated that he, as a regulatory commissioner, could not stand by and allow a Federal Court order that took away the profit areas of South Central Bell and gave to AT&T and then impose a rate increase on the local consumers.

"I do not in any way feel that the decision of this commission will impair telephone service in this state. The company will be expected to provide quality service and live within its financial revenues which netted them in 1981 $112,629,000 in the State of Mississippi."

Havens further stated that even though it is not written into rate making principles about the ability of the consumer to pay, but it must be considered by the company and by the commission.

Southern Company sells three million shares

Directors of The Southern Company today approved the sale of three million additional shares of common stock.

The winning bid for the shares was submitted by a nationwide group of securities underwriters who will offer the new stock to the public at $14.75 per share. The group is headed by Morgan Stanley & Co. Incorporated.

The Southern Company will receive $43,821,000 from today's public offering. The funds will be used to help finance the construction of electric service facilities across the Southeast.

President Alvin W. Vogtle Jr., said, "These new equity investments will enable the Southern electric system to meet future demands for electricity and improve the power generation network that now serves the region."

The Southern Company is the parent firm of four electric utilities: Alabama Power, Georgia Power, Gulf Power, and Mississippi Power.

The companies of the Southern electric system currently are building 20 generating units at eight sites. When completed—between now and 1991—these units will add more than 5.6 million kilowatts of generating capacity to the system. The construction program also includes building and upgrading transmission and distribution lines, substations, and other facilities.

Power company chief sensitive to charges of insensitivity

Mississippi Power Company President Alan Barton has refuted charges that the utility is insensitive to problems of low-income customers, stating some customers have been "used" by intervenors in the utility's current rate case.

Barton's comments were included in rebuttal testimony Mississippi Power Company prefilled with the state Public Service Commission on the utility's request for a $21.9 million rate increase. The final hearings on the request are scheduled Sept. 20-21.

"Mississippi Power Company is 1,400 men and women working together to do their best to provide reliable electric service to their friends, neighbors and fellow citizens at the most reasonable price possible," Barton said. "To characterize them as insensitive or not caring is a gross injustice."

Barton said in his testimony that customers who testified on behalf of intervenors in the rate case hearings "have been used and I strongly resent the efforts of others to use them for their own purposes and expose them to possible embarassment."

The utility chief discredited the testimony of three public witnesses who were put on the stand at the hearings by the Legal Services Coalition.

Barton said a search of company records disproved the testimony of one witness who testified that her electricity has been terminated because she couldn't pay her June 1982 bill of about $10 and that she was without electricity for about five days.

"A search of our records from December 1976 to August 1982 indicated that this customer has a consistent record of paying bills on time and has never been cut off for non-payment of a bill," Barton said.

"Another customer testified that 'my light bill was $83. That's just the light bill.' The most recent payment we have received near the amount she mentioned was $84.75 on March 12, 1982. The $84.75 consisted of $28.37 for electric service, $14.23 was an installment payment on an appliance purchased from the company and $42.15 was a charge for appliance repair service in February on the customer's washing machine," Barton pointed out.

Barton said a third witness who testified on July 9, 1982, that "it's coming down to a choice of being able to pay the electric bill or pay the rent" was not even a customer of Mississippi Power Company when she testified.

"By this testimony, I do not in any way intend criticism of these witnesses nor do I lack genuine sympathy for any personal problems they may have," he said.

Barton said a check around the utility's 23-county service area shows that in a typical one-month period several thousand customers who contracted Mississippi Power Company with problems in paying their bills were assisted.

"Employees of the company work with these customers daily," Barton said. "For some it is to permit partial payment, for others it is a deferral of payment. Customers with a genuine problem always get consideration, but they need to contact our office so that we can be aware of the individual problem. We don't deal with account numbers but with individuals with individual needs."

Barton said it would be arbitrary discrimination against all other customers if the company should offer lower rates for low-income groups, as had been suggested by some special interest groups.

"It costs the same amount of money to provide energy to light a 100 watt bulb whether it's burning in the home of a low, middle or high income customer."

To provide that energy at a subsidized rate means that other customers must pay for that subsidy. This amounts to a forced redistribution of income which is a right granted only to the legislative branch of government—not Mississippi Power Company."

Barton said if energy bills are to be subsidized it should be done through improving or expanding such programs as the government's Low Income Energy Assistance Program which provides funds for qualifying families.

"I am convinced that only through programs of this nature can the problem be addressed properly. Mississippi Power Company, even if it had the authority, would not have the expertise to determine whether a customer met the qualifications established for low income assistance."

Bay Council assesses a total 51.25 mills

By BRENT MACEY

The Bay St. Louis City Council set millage rates for the 1982-83 year at its meeting Tuesday in Bay St. Louis City Hall.

Eddie Favre, city clerk, noted a total 51.25 mills assessed this year is the same amount of millage assessed last year.

The only change involved a decrease in the amount of millage established for the City-County Library Fund.

Whereas last year the library fund received 1.25 mills, it was reduced to one mill this year due to a state law requiring library funds be limited to one mill, Favre said.

The extra .25 mills subtracted from the library fund was placed in a School Bond Sinking Fund to increase that fund's millage to 2.75.

Other mills remain the same and include: 15 mills for the city's General Fund; 2.75 mills for Parks and Playgrounds—Operations Management Fund; 1.50 mills for Parks and Playgrounds—Construction Fund; 2 mills for the School District Short Term Loan Fund; 3 mills for the Minimum Program School Fund; and a total of 22 mills for a District School Maintenance Fund.

Favre estimated each mill will bring $18,000. The total 51.25 mills will bring $922,500.

Also at the meeting, the council agreed to request $500,000 from the Department of Urban Development for the second year of the 1981 Small Cities Project. Although the federal government agreed that the second year of program should be funded $500,000, the state, which has taken over the distribution of the federal money, will have to allocate that much for the project.

Ronn Murray, Bay St. Louis consultant for the project, noted some $355,000 of the $500,000 is requested for housing rehabilitation.

At a previous meeting, Murray said he hopes some 40 homes can be rehabilitated in 1983 with that amount. Some $39,000 is requested for acquisition and demolition; $74,000 for administration and $32,000 is requested for contingencies.

In other business at the Tuesday meeting, the council set Oct. 19, as the date for a public hearing to decide if three properties in the city should be declared a public health or safety hazard.

The properties in question include a house on the corner of Dunbar Avenue and US-90 which was left on the side of the road after attempts to move it were inhibited by electric lines in the area; an overgrown lot on the corner of Necaise Street and Union Street; and a lot of land on the corner of Mercury Drive and Longfellow Road.

Octagon complex being raised in Waveland

By BRENT MACEY

Dignitaries, contractors and developers met at ground-breaking ceremonies on Waveland Avenue Tuesday to mark the opening construction of a 136 unit apartment complex.

The development, to be called Sentury Park, will contain 34 separate buildings on a 23 acre site.

It will be located almost directly across Waveland Avenue from Our Shopping Center.

The apartment complex is expected to be completed by early 1983. The units will be rented.

According to Maxwell Pace, on the board of directors of project developers Hobbit Hill Limited of Gulfport, each apartment will be constructed in the shape of an octagon and will be similar to the buildings in an apartment complex being completed on beach front property in Pass Christian.

Each of the 34 buildings in Waveland will contain four apartments. Each building will consist of two, two-story octagonal structures connected by one common wall.

Pace said octagon shape allows more usable square footage than a square or rectangular style unit.

Each apartment will contain 801 square feet of living space, and since each one is octagonal, he claimed the same amount of furniture which will fill a house with 937 square feet, will fit into the octagonal apartments.

Two streets will enter the development which will contain a community swimming pool, dressing room and tennis court, Pace said.

According to Louis Sage, contractor for the project, "The site in Waveland was selected because of its close proximity to 'Our Shopping Center,' next door."

The entire 136 unit project has been sold to the Senturia Interests in St. Louis, Mo. who will lease the units once they are completed, Pace said.

Pace stated the project was sold to investors who needed a tax right-off.

"They will be managed by somebody locally who will take care of them," he noted.

"Apparently it's a great tax break...they didn't have any problem selling them," he said.

Besides the similar complex being constructed in Pass Christian, Pace said other similar units have been built in Alabama and on the Florida Coast.

"Within 24 months, like projects will begin north of the Gulfport Seabee Base, on the Rainbow Bay Golf Course in Biloxi, on the Pine Island Golf Course in Jackson County, and in Louisiana, Georgia, Oklahoma and Florida," he said.

The land and development was financed through the Federal National Mortgage Association, he said.

Hancock Bank loaned the money for construction.

In addition to the Sentury Park Development, two other developments are being planned for construction

A 48 unit apartment complex is planned for construction just south of Sentury Park on Waveland Avenue. Other commercial structures are planned for an area along US-90 just west of Waveland Avenue.

New shuttle tank completed at Michoud

A major milestone in the Space Shuttle program was reached Friday when the first lightweight External Tank (LWT-1) was rolled out of the manufacturing plant at NASA's Michoud Assembly Facility in New Orleans East.

The large brown external tank carries the super-cold liquid oxygen and hydrogen, propellants for the Space Shuttle Main Engines, and acts as the structural "backbone" of the Shuttle vehicle.

The tank's three major components are an oxygen tank, a hydrogen tank and a collar-like intertank which connects the two propellant tanks and houses the entire structure's instrumentation.

At 71,000 pounds, LWT-1 is about 7,000 pounds lighter than the external tank used for the space shuttle's maiden flight in April of 1981. The tank's reduced weight will provide the shuttle with extra payload carrying capability of almost one pound for every pound of tank weight shed.

According to James Odom, manager of the External Tank Project Office at the Marshall Space Flight Center, the weight reduction was accomplished by eliminating portions of stringers (structural stiffeners running the length of the hydrogen tank), using fewer stiffener rings and by modifying major frames in the hydrogen tank.

Also, large portions of the tank were milled differently to reduce thickness and weight, and the weight of the tank's aft solid rocket booster attachments was reduced by using a stronger, yet lighter and less expensive titanium alloy.

"Several hundred pounds was also eliminated by deleting an anti-geyser line," said Odom. This line acted as a built-in refrigeration system, keeping liquid oxygen at its super-cold temperature while filling the oxygen tank prior to launch. NASA officials decided to remove the line after assessing propellant loading data from ground tests and the first few shuttle missions.

Although most of the tank's alterations will not be apparent to the casual observer, one change is already obvious: six hundred pounds of white latex paint was eliminated from the tank's surface before the third Shuttle flight. After analyzing data from the first Shuttle mission, NASA officials determined that the External Tank's thermal protection system would adequately protect the tank without the paint.

After rollout Friday, the tank was loaded aboard a NASA barge for shipment to the Kennedy Space Center, Fla., where it will be prepared for flight. The new lighter-weight tank will be flown on the sixth Space Shuttle mission, now scheduled for January 1983.

The external tanks are manufactured by Martin Marietta Aerospace, Michoud Division, under contract to the Marshall Space Flight Center, Huntsville, Ala.

Tiger Coach feels:

Tiger, Blue Devil battle to be test of strength

By BRENT MACEY

The Bay High School varsity football team will face a tough Pearl River Central squad Friday in Carriere in a game which may foretell who will be year's Deep South Conference champion.

Tiger Head Coach Snuffy Smith noted the Blue Devils went on to win the conference last year after they narrowly defeated the Tigers 8-6 early in the season.

"I think if we don't beat Pearl River then they will go on and win the championship," he said.

"I feel we're the team to beat them. We've got a good ball team and it's a big game...last year they beat us and after that nobody came around and beat them," he noted.

In terms of this year he said, "If we don't beat them ourselves then I don't think there is anybody down the road who can," he said.

Smith noted the Blue Devils have an experienced team with seven seniors on offense and another seven seniors on defense.

"The rest are juniors," he said.

"They have a big front line" he said, noting most of the Blue Devils linemen weigh more than 200 pounds.

However, size is not Smith's major concern since he feels the Tigers can match them in that category.

The Blue Devils' experience and basic fundamentals are what the Tigers will have to worry about the most, Smith feels.

"They are the soundest team fundamentally that I've seen in a while," Smith said, noting he has watched tapes of two previous games the Blue Devils have played this season.

"They are a fine football team and they have a fine running back in Johnathan Robertson."

"I think overall we are faster and quicker than Pearl River," Smith said, and stated the Tigers have 'better athletic ability.'

I feel the game will be matching potential ability against fundamentals. We have the better quality athletes," he added.

In terms of game tactics, Smith feels both teams will be attempting to stay with the running game.

"I think it's going to be strength against strength," he said.

"I believe that they will be trying to come straight at us," he said.

"We are going to have to try and stop them on the ground first."

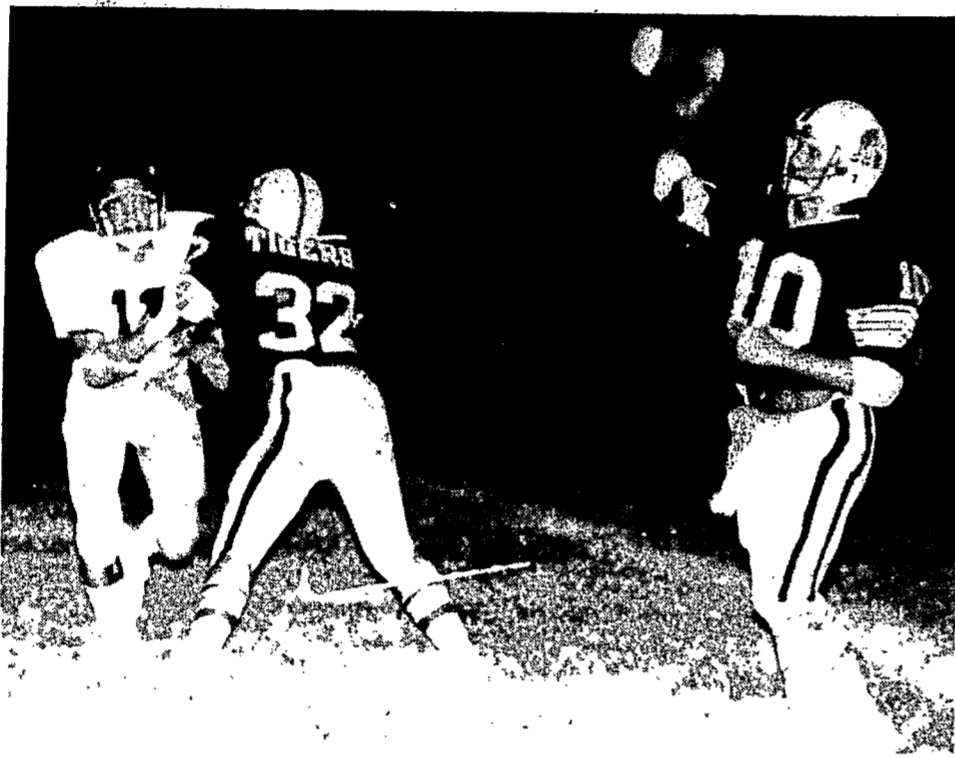

The Tigers on the other hand will attempt to go straight at the Blue Devils and will be relying on running backs Harold Gillum, Charles Hawkins and a speedy Michael Lewis.

If that does not work then the Tigers will be attempting to go around the end or pass, Smith said.

In regards to the passing game, neither team has gone to the air much in the past.

Smith stated after last week's game against Pass Christian that the Tigers could go to the air, although they stayed on the ground for the majority of that game.

"We've been passing when we want to. But really we haven't needed to pass the ball. Nobody has yet to dictate that we've got to pass. Hopefully this will follow through each week. But if somebody is going to dictate that we have to throw the ball we'll see what we can do."

TESTING THE AIR GAME—Bay High School quarterback David McIver, 10, attempts one of the few Bay High School passes this year during a season opener against Stone County. Tiger guard Mike Proulx, 32, wards off a defender. Bay High Head Coach Snuffy Smith claims his team has the ability to go to the air, and will, if another squad can stop the Tiger ground game. That may be seen this Friday when the Tigers travel to Pearl River Central to face a tough Blue Devil team. For the past two games McIver, for the most part, has concentrated his energies on organizing an effective Tiger running game. (Staff photo by Brent Macey)

Hawks expect crowd at first home encounter

Hancock North Central's Hawks make their first home appearance of the season Friday in a Deep South Conference encounter against Stone County.

The Hawks will carry 1-0 conference and 1-1 overall records into the contest, with a season-opening, conference win over St. Stanislaus in Bay St. Louis and a 24-3 non-conference loss to Forrest County Agricultural High in Brooklyn last week.

Stone lost a conference season opener to Bay High, and was dumped in closing seconds of a non-conference contest against George County Friday, 20-13, thus accumulating a 0-1 conference total and 0-2 overall.

"Stone County was one of the early choices for the conference championship—they're a big team outweighing us 20 pounds per man on the defensive line," Hawk coach Irvin Favre noted.

"Friday's game will be a case of whether our offensive line can stack up against their defensive line," the coach continued.

"It's going to be a situation of our smaller people against their bigger people—we can't beat them head-to-head, so we'll have to be quicker."

Stone's offensive forward wall is among the biggest in the conference with four men weighing in at more than 200 pounds.

"They've got two men in the OUTSTANDING PLAYER—Hancock North Central fullback Dennis Lacoste (46) was cited for an outstanding job in the Hawks 24-3 loss to Forrest County Aggies Friday in Brooklyn. Lacoste made eight solo tackles and seven assists and was credited by Coach Irvin Favre with 'doing an excellent job on both sides of the football.' Also in on the action Friday are tackle Steve McQueen (76), end Mike Bilbo (85), and tackle Bobby Beech (72). Bilbo and Beech were injured in the game but are expected to see action Friday against Stone County in the Hawks first home game. Kickoff is at 7:30 p.m. at HNC Stadium. Pirates facing tough battle with Warriors

By WAYNE DUCOMB JR.

The Pass Christian High School Pirates face tough competition Friday night at Francis S. McDonald Stadium against the d'Iberville High School Warriors.

The winless Pirates with a 1982 record of 0-2 will battle a d'Iberville team which has not been defeated this season.

Last year an overall older Pass Christian team defeated the Warriors at their field.

Pirate Head Coach Bob Lumpkin Tuesday said his relatively young and inexperienced team will play their toughest game so far this year against the Warriors.

"d'Iberville has a good team and they do a variety of plays well," he stated.

Lumpkin reported the Warriors run a multiple offense and their defensive squad is quick.

"We're going to have to play a good sound game defensively. d'Iberville is a quick defensive ball club which has been consistently good over the last seven-eight years," the head coach said.

"We will have to effectively block, tackle and overall play good ball," he added.

The head coach said the Warriors offensively run good trap plays.

Lumpkin reported no Pirates are benched with injuries, no players have changed positions and all starters are the same.

Regarding Pass Christian's 32-7 loss to Bay Senior High School last Friday, Lumpkin said the Pirate defense performed poorly against the Tigers.

"We gave them (the Tigers) two touchdowns and they broke two long ones on us...we made mistakes," he explained.

Kickoff time is 7:30 p.m.

Pearl River College's Wildcats blew a 15 point third period cushion in Poplarville Saturday night to lose to north division foe Itawamba 19-15.

Everything ran smoothly for Pearl River even amidst the rain, thunder and lightning, until Ronnie Hatchett took off on a 48 yard scamper midway through the third quarter. The run ignited the Indians' bon-fire and they went on the warpath.

IJC's Tim Fields pushed it over from the two to cap the 72 yard, six play drive with 7:17 remaining in the third stanza. The Indians' try for two points was stopped by freshman Clay Squires and the score stood at PRC 16 and Itawamba 6. A little over two minutes later I. J. Chapman broke loose for a 84 yard punt return for another six points. This time Jeff Ferguson added the PAT and the Wildcat lead was 15-13.

The Wildcats had good field position and were marching before J. D. Daniels fumbled at about the 40 yard line. The third quarter nightmare ended for the Wildcats, however, and the Indians continued their drive for the lead.

Two big fourth down plays kept the drive alive and finally on fourth down quarterback

Jeff Little connected with tight end Ray Herring for a 14 yard touchdown. It was Little's second completion of the night after 15 tries.

PRC's offense was completely stymied by the Indians the remainder of the contest. PRC scored its touchdowns on a five yard first quarter run by L. C. Hopkins and a one yard hurdle by Glen Meranto.

Tony Smith, who had missed the first point after, kicked a 32 yard field goal to begin the third quarter of play.

It was actually two ballgames rolled into one as the Wildcats picked up 10 first downs and 174 yards in the first half of IJC's 74 yards and four first downs. In the second thirty minutes the Indians racked up 11 first downs while holding the Wildcat wishbone attack to zero first downs.

Hatchett wound up the night with 129 yards on 19 carries. Edward Holt was the leading Wildcat ballcarrier with 52 yards on 15 carries, Hopkins had 43 yards on nine attempts.

The loss put the Wildcats' record at 1-1 and the Indians' ledger at 1-1.

J. C. Arban, the Wildcats' head coach, said Jeff Waits the 'Cats outstanding defensive tackle from Oak Grove, was operated on Saturday night.

"Jeff had surgery on his left knee for a torn lateral ligament," Arban said. "It's a fast healing injury, but we'll just have to wait and see if he can play anymore this year."

Waits, a transfer from LSU, was the defensive leader for the 'Cats. He also played left offensive tackle. "He'll be hard to replace," Arban said. "It's a real blow to our team."

To make things worse, Waits is not the only wounded Wildcat. Eight other Wildcats have some type of injury and there are only a couple of days before the Wildcats' first South Division contest. Hinds is on tap for Thursday night at Raymond.

Terry Stockstill, a starting sophomore tackle from Carriere has a bruised shoulder and may not play Thursday. Shannon Ramsey of Picayune has a knee injury and missed last week's game and defensive end Richard Hughes of Lumberton, the 'Cats starting left defensive end, broke his arm last week during practice and is out for the season.

Wildcats questionable for Thursday's game include Ken Stuart, guard from Petal (hip bruise); tailbacks Donald Cooper, Picayune (bruised shoulder) and starter Lloyd Henry of Hancock (bruised knee).

Linebacker and tight end Tommy Hillman of Petal and Greg Harris, guard and tackle from Lafayette have muscle cramps. "We have lost some good people," Arban said, "and we don't have a lot of time to get well for Hinds."

Arban said Itawamba did an outstanding job during the second half. "They really came after us. The momentum changed and we made a lot of bad mistakes."

The Wildcats led 15-0 midway through the third quarter before the Indians got on the warpath. A long run set up one score and then an 84 yard punt return for a score took the wind out of the Pearl River sails. Itawamba scored its 19 points in less than 12 minutes of the game.

Rocks to cross state line in search of win number 1

By RANDY PONDER

The St. Stanislaus Rock-A-Chaws will travel to Alabama Friday evening looking for their first win of the 1982 football season.

Mobile County, 0-2, will be the Rocks opponents.

In spite of their record, the Tigers have the leading rusher of the Mobile area in runningback Chester Davis.

Mobile County operates out of several formations including the I, Power I, Pro-Set, and Slot. They have a quarterback who runs the option well and one of their strongest points is an excellent fieldgoal kicker.

Averaging about 190 pounds on the offensive line, Mobile County is the smallest squad the Rock-A-Chaws have faced this year. The Rocks average 165.

St. Stanislaus has lost tailback Darrin Scarborough and tight end David LeBlanc for the remainder of the year, both with collar bone injuries.

"There's a possibility that one or both could be back late in the season, it's up to the doctors," head coach Vernon Powell explained of his injured starters.

"We're going to stay with our regular people and try to concentrate on a few plays and hopefully control the ball," Powell stated.

"We need a win, we'll be up for this game. Two losses don't make a season. We have eight more games to play, if we hand our heads now it's going to be a long season," the Rock coach concluded.

Kickoff is set for 7:30 p.m.

Coach lists Bulldog cross-country skeds

Mississippi State Director of Athletics Carl Maddox has announced the 1982 Cross-Country schedule for the Bulldog harriers.

State will compete in four meets as well as the annual Southeastern Conference championship this fall. The Bulldogs will kick off the fall slate on Sept. 25 as they host the always-strong University of Tennessee at the MSU Golf Course.

On October 2 the Bulldogs will shoot for their third consecutive title in the Mississippi Intercollegiate meet. State has captured both state championships since the MI was reinstituted in 1980.

The Bulldogs then travel to Athens, Ga., to run in the Georgia Invitational on Oct. 8. Two weeks later Mississippi State runs in Oxford, Ms., in the Ole Miss Invitational. The Bulldogs finished second last season in this meet.

The conference meet will return the State harriers to Athens on Nov. 6. The NCAA District championships will be held on Nov. 13 in Greenville, S.C., with the National Championships set for Nov. 22.

Coach Bob Kitchens welcomes back five lettermen from the 1981 team which captured the Azalea Invitational for the second straight year and finished third in the SEC championships. Mzee Ruto, Simeon Kigen, Mark Strucko and Joseph Gworo return, as well as Sule Alli, who sat out the 1982 outdoor season with a hurt knee. Kigen and Strucko earned All-SEC honors along with the graduated Paul Rugut. Kigen is the school five-mile recordholder with a 23:55 clocking.

Soccer club slates clinics

The Bay Area Soccer Club will hold a free United States Soccer Federation "F" level soccer clinic beginning at 8 a.m. Saturday.

The clinic includes an indoor session in the morning and an outdoor session in the afternoon.

The indoor session, open to the general public, will be at the Lutheran Church of the Pines, US-90, Waveland opposite Choctaw Plaza, and will concentrate on methods of coaching, team management, first aid, rules of the game and systems of play.

The outdoor session, also open to the general public, will be held on the playing field at St. Augustine Seminary and will cover basic soccer techniques and tactics.

Individuals wishing to participate in the outdoor session should wear appropriate exercise clothing and footwear.

An adult game will be played at approximately 3 p.m. to give individuals a better feel for the game.

For individuals who wish to get additional knowledge about the game of soccer, the Bay Area Soccer Club has donated four books to the Bay St. Louis branch of the Hancock County Library System. The books cover much of the information which will be covered in the "F" clinic, and will be useful as supplements to those who coach or referee.

State Medical Association lists gun safety rules for hunters

GUN SAFETY
(Presented as a public service by the Mississippi State Medical Association and this newspaper)

The fall hunting season is here once again. Thousands of Mississippians will be taking to the fields and woods in search of game.

The Mississippi State Medical Association reminds hunters once again that guns can kill. The paramount safety rule for the hunter is a simple one — before you pull the trigger, know what you're firing at.

Each fall some hunters return from fall outings via hearse. Others return with a load of bird shot or a rifle bullet to be dug out. Behind almost every hunting accident is one cause: carelessness. The hunter who blazes away at everything that moves runs a big risk of bagging a fellow hunter.

Never cross over or through a fence or climb a tree with a loaded gun. Unload first and reload after crossing. Don't shoot at a hard, flat surface. Ricocheting bullets can carry long distances with killing power.

31 REASONS WHY

There are 31 paired spinal nerves coming from the spinal cord and passing between the spinal bones of the back. These nerves branch off and go to every organ of the body. These nerves carry and transmit the energy that causes function and motion of body organs. The spinal column, composed of 24 different segments of bone, is daily subjected to all kinds of various stresses, such as twisting, falling, walking, etc. A slight displacement of just one of these spinal bones can pinch a nerve, cutting or blocking its carrying capacity of nerve energy. Then the organ supplied by the pinched nerve begins to malfunction. A condition of this nature can bring about adverse effects within the body. It may be that there is only one nerve or one cause as to why you are sick but then again there may be 31 reasons. You can find out for certain with a Chiropractic examination.

backfield we'll definitely have to stop if we're going to win," Favre added.

"Anthony Harris is a senior quarterback who both throws and runs well, and they've got a 190-pound fullback named Tillman who poses a real threat."

Favre said Hawk quarterback Mark Santalla's injured arm is showing improvement. "He's throwing the ball a lot better."

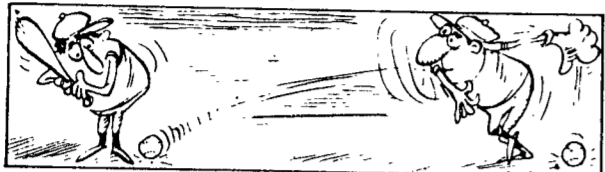

Kicker Bobby Beech, who sustained a knee-twist on his kicking leg last week, is expected to be in good shape Friday, the coach pointed out.

Mike Bilbo is expected to see limited action due to a persistent ankle ailment.

"We should be a much better ball club this week than we were last week," the coach stated.

"Our boys are looking forward to the support of a large, enthusiastic crowd in the stands since this will be our first home game this year," Favre noted.

If one baseball is tossed horizontally while at the same instant a second baseball is dropped vertically from the same height, both of them will reach the ground simultaneously.

AGGIES CLOSE IN—Forrest County Agricultural High School Aggies close in on Hancock North Central Hawk Quarterback Mark Santalla (14) in a non-conference encounter Friday in Brooklyn. Hawk fullback Mark Jackson (41) assists on the play. The Aggie defense held Santalla to five completions in 14 attempts for 37 yards, and grounded Hawk rushers to 136 yards while handing the White Cypress club its first defeat of 1982. The Hawks, in their first home game Friday, meet Stone County in an attempt to stay alive in the Deep South Conference race. (Echo staff photo by Edgar Perez)

ALL-ROUNDERS

Three members of the current MSU football edition have also been listed on State's varsity baseball roster at some time.

Junior quarterback Tim Parenton of New Orleans, La., is a shortstop while senior end Glen Young of Greenwood is an outfielder for Coach Ron Polk's crew.

Sophomore safety Dan Hogan of Doraville, Ga., was slated to pitch for the '81 Bulldogs but had to drop out with a broken ankle. He spent the 1982 season in spring football practice to catch up on lost time.

Running increases the ability of the lungs to take in more oxygen, dissolve it in the bloodstream and pump it more efficiently to the muscles, which use it to produce energy. It also makes the heart beat faster, eventually causing it to work more efficiently and with less effort.

It is important, however, to remember that running may not be for everyone. You should not engage in any exercise program or sport without first consulting your physician to determine what is best for you.

SBA pledges special consideration for veterans

The U. S. Small Business Administration is committed to a firm policy of helping the Nation's veterans and has set up a special Office of Veterans Business Affairs to act as an advocate so that veterans may enter business and succeed as entrepreneurs, according to Mike Laddner, Hancock County veterans affairs officer.

This policy recently was reaffirmed before the Economic Commission of the American Legion at that organization's annual meeting in Chicago by Marshall Parker, SBA's associate administrator overseeing veteran's affairs.

Parker, a leading Seneca, S.C. businessman and a U.S. Marine Corps veteran, said that 10 special small business training seminars in major cities would be conducted by SBA in cooperation with local veterans organizations, the U.S. Department of Labor and the U.S. Action Agency.

At these seminars, veterans will be asked to select priority training they need to manage a business, secure loans or sell goods and services to the Government.

Parker said SBA soon will publish a new veterans handbook which will describe how the agency is meeting its Congressional mandate to give "special consideration" to veterans. The handbook will be available at local SBA offices and through veterans organization groups nationwide.

SBA administrator James Sanders Parker said, "has issued a policy statement directing SBA program managers to ensure that special veterans consideration is made a part of every SBA program."

Parker said a special veterans task force, presently chaired by Frank Swann, the agency's chief counsel for advocacy, would continue for another year giving advice on how to better aid veterans. Task force membership includes representatives from all veterans organizations. Parker announced that 100 special SBA veterans affairs officers are in place in district and regional offices. He added that veterans requesting help should ask to see SBA veterans affairs officer during their initial contact with the agency.

Student travel programs offered

European travel opportunities for high school students will be outlined tonight at 7:30 p.m. at the home of Mrs. Mary Lou Koch, 956 South Beach Blvd., Bay St. Louis.

For the past two summers local students have participated in this educational program under the direction of American International Education and Training, Inc. with home offices in Corte Madera, Calif.

"Next summer we will study the customs, architecture and history of seven countries as we travel by plane, ferry, bus, train and hovercraft for 27 days," said Koch, local representative for the firm.

"Our major destinations will be Koblenz and Rothenburg, Germany; Vienna, Austria; Venice, Rome, Assisi and Florence, Italy; Wengen and Interlaken, Switzerland; Paris, France; London, England; Amsterdam. The Netherlands," she noted.

Students who have completed the junior or senior year of high school may earn up to six hours college credit applicable to any U.S. university through this program, according to Koch.

Tonight's meeting will include a slide presentation of the past two trips, a day-by-day description of the itinerary, and distribution of applications and brochures.

For information, call Koch at 487-7786.

Computer department adds base system equipment

The University of Southern Mississippi Department of Computer Science and Statistics recently installed a DEC Vax 11/780 mini-computer base system to support the added demand for degrees in the major, said Danny Carter, department chairman.

The projected student enrollment in computer science for this fall is 1,200, or 12 percent of the total student population.

Along with the new computer, which replaced the department's dependence on the university's system, the department will double its terminal capacity so students can have better access to the machines, Carter said.

Before installing the new system the department was using 70 percent of the university computer's resources.

Education for computer science majors will be updated by the new equipment, said Carter. Current information is always a problem in this field, because things change so fast.

The next step of updating will be to add to the department's hardware laboratory.

The department is the sixth largest computer science department in the country. Additional faculty is needed, Carter said, but it is difficult to attract faculty because there is not a wealth of PhD's coming out of universities; only 50 graduated nationwide last year.

These graduates may choose to go to work in private industries instead of teach, due to the high salaries there.

Graduates of USM's computer science department are hired by such companies as Texaco, Texas Instruments, Motorola and IBM.

One of the most gratifying things to Carter has been the larger number of students who have chosen to work in Mississippi instead of going out of state.

In addition to college students, the department works with children during the summer, introducing them to computers through Computer Day Camp and Computer Week Camp. It also conducts workshops for businessmen.

In his adult workshops, Carter said he has had quite a number of farmers to attend. He said computers are now common on some dairy and grain farms around the state.

"Five years ago they (workshop participants) had a great awe of computers. The mystery is gone now and the reality of the machine is here."

Over 60 percent of the work force interacts with machines. By 1985, Carter said, this number will increase to above 90 percent. "We're very close to making the computer really usable without extensive education," he said.

DID YOU KNOW?

- The Columbian Squires, started in August 1925 by Brother Barnabas, F.S.C., is the official junior organization of the Knights of Columbus.
- Almost 17,000 young men between the ages of 12 and 18 presently belong to the 883 local circles organized throughout the United States, Canada, Mexico, the Philippines and Puerto Rico.
- Since the program was organized, the objectives have been and continue to be to assist Catholic young men through their adolescent years and to develop leadership among the young men by affording them frequent opportunities to assume responsibility, demonstrate initiative and direct their own affairs.
- During the last 52 years, more than 100,000 young men have reaped the benefits derived through membership in the Columbian Squires.
- A local circle is operated in much the same fashion as a local Knights of Columbus council. Columbian Squires elect their own officers and establish committees as do the Knights of Columbus.
- The Columbian Squires program functions around five separate activity committees: service, spiritual, civic-cultural, social and athletic—similar to the Service Program of the Knights of Columbus.
- Approximately 2,500 Squires reach the age of 18 each year and are eligible for membership in the Knights of Columbus.
- "Este Dignus" is the motto of the Columbian Squires program. "Be Worthy" of your ideals, faith and country.
- The Columbian Squires program is "worthy" of sponsorship by any and all Knights of Columbus councils and assemblies. Interested? Write: Supreme Council Service Department, Knights of Columbus, Columbus Plaza, New Haven, Connecticut 06507.

Trustees surveying citizens on higher education needs

A survey on the needs of higher education in Mississippi is being conducted by the Board of Trustees of State Institutions of Higher Learning.

The survey is designed to obtain opinions and measure awareness of policies and issues relating to the eight public universities in the state.

These universities include Alcorn State University, Delta State University, Jackson

State University, Mississippi State University, Mississippi University for Women, Mississippi Valley State University, University of Mississippi and the University of Southern Mississippi.

The purpose of the survey is to determine the public's awareness of the quality, needs, and future of public higher education.

According to Dr. Robert W. Harrison Jr., board president from Yazoo City, "We hope to find out if the public is aware of the challenges facing higher education today and to discover special concerns the public has regarding higher education."

The survey was mailed Sept. 1 to approximately 2,000 people in the state. The questionnaire will go to a random sampling of business and industrial leaders, manufacturers, mayors and supervisors, professionals, high school students, educators, state legislators, and the general public.

The survey will request opinions and recommendations concerning higher education which the board will use in decision-making. Information obtained from the survey will be used by the board in both long- and short-range planning in the development of higher education in the state.

The Hardin Foundation of Meridian has agreed to increase its financial contributions to scholarships provided each year to top STAR Students, according to the Mississippi Economic Council.

on a request from the MEC's STAR Committee that the scholarships be increased for the popular program, which is designed to award student and teacher achievement.

Beginning next April, the committee was told by the Hardin Foundation, the state's top STAR Student will receive a $1,000 scholarship, an increase from $1,000; the first runner-up's scholarship will be increased from $500 to $1,000; and the scholarship for the second runner-up will go from $200 to $500.

The Foundation also increased cash awards to STAR Teachers to $300 each, from $100 apiece.

The STAR (Student-Teacher Achievement Recognition) Program is designed to recognize Mississippi's outstanding high school students and teachers. The program is part of the M.B. Swayze Foundation.

The STAR Program attracted record participation from Mississippi schools last year, Committee Chairman Benton Cain of Jackson said 330 public and private secondary schools participated during the past school year.

"The M.B. Swayze Foundation expressed its sincere appreciation to the Hardin Foundation for this increased support for the STAR Program," said Bob Pittman, MEC president. "The success of the Star Program is evident from the growing participation by schools throughout the state, and the funding will provide deserving students with a head start on their college finances," Pittman said.

Nursing curriculum includes computers

Hospitals around the country are rapidly switching over to computers for such services as patient management, information systems, administration and the planning of patient care. The nurse of the future must be familiar with the use of computers if he or she is to stay ahead.

At the University of Southern Mississippi's School of Nursing, Dr. Vivian Hayes is helping nursing students become familiar with computer terminals through a graduate research class. Dr. Hayes, the director of research in the school, recently helped 20 graduate students in this class with the use of computers and, as a result, five of these students utilized the school's terminals when they wrote their master's theses.

"It is important to develop a favorable attitude toward the use of a computer," said Dr. Hayes. This not only applies to students, but to faculty as well. Dr. Hayes is currently helping five faculty members with research by using the computer system at USM. "I want to encourage faculty to take computer courses," she said. This will stimulate interest in the use of computers as well as aid faculty in research purposes.

The school also uses the computer for Test Item Analysis, which benefits students by improving the quality of the tests given.

Faculty members gather information on each exam given in the school and analyze the responses of the students "so they can look at the test as a whole over time," Dr. Hayes said.

Records are stored and retrieved with the computer in order to complete reports. Some of the records include data on present students, grades, previous graduates and student services.

The school uses two terminals and a line printer in its resource center which are tied into the university's computer system. Some of the future goals of the school include a microcomputer system, which will aid nursing students in decision making for patients. Decisions in nursing must be intelligent for the good of the patient and the computers will make determining a student's skills in this area much easier. Another goal is to introduce more people to the system.

"This year I hope to get more faculty involved and to teach the faculty how to use the computer for data analysis," said Dr. Rhymes.

Gerry D. Cadenhead, the chairman of the baccalaureate program in the school, said that in the future it will be wise to recommend that nursing students be familiar with computers through a course or in some other way.

USM Arts Center offers seven events

The 1982-83 Arts Center Series at the University of Southern Mississippi offers season ticket holders seven events scheduled for the Performing Arts Center during the year.

Opening the season will be pianist Anthony De Bonaventura on Oct. 21. He has performed in 22 countries with many of the world's major orchestras.

Di Bonaventura, currently professor of music at the School for the Arts at Boston University started his piano studies at the age of three and appeared as a soloist with the New York Philharmonic at 13. He is now recognized as one of the eminent pianists of his generation.

On Nov. 11 an outstanding young violinist, Chantal Juliet, winner of the Young Concert Artists International Auditions will perform.

Only 21 years old the Canadian violinist has won numerous music awards and has kept many American and Canadian audiences "on the edge of their seats with electrifying playing," according to one reviewer.

"Amahl and the Night Visitors," Menotti's perennial favorite about the first Christmas will be presented Dec. 9 in a fully staged production complete with symphony orchestra.

The Small Dance Company, directed by Robert Small will begin 1983 on January 20. The company repertoire includes solos, duets and quartets ranging from pure movement pieces to dramatic theatre works. He has been called a choreographer of wonderful inventiveness and imagination.

In a brilliant one-man performance John Maxwell will present "Oh, Mr. Faulkner, Do You Write?" on February 17. This blend of literature and theatre is based on letters, speeches and personal recollections of Mississippians who knew Faulkner.

Originally produced at the New Stage theatre in Jackson the play is now touring the country.

Florence Quivar, renowned mezzo soprano with 25 roles to her credit will perform March 24. She has a diverse repertoire and has performed with most of the nation's leading symphonies. Prior to coming to USM she will make her London debut with the London Philharmonic in late 1982.

Mozart's masterpiece "The Magic Flute" will be a fully staged Opera Theatre production complete with symphony orchestra to be presented April 14 as the season's final event.

Season tickets for all events are $20 for adults and $5 for students and are available by contacting the College of Fine Arts, Southern Station Box 5031, Hattiesburg, Miss. 39401 or by calling 266-4984.

Growing Child

P.O. Box 620N, Lafayette, Indiana 47902 (317) 423-2624

Most people agree that age 2½ is the most exasperating age in the pre-school period. It is also one of the funniest!

Keep your sense of humor well shined-up, draw on your hidden reserves of patience and objectivity—and both you and your child will weather this stormy period successfully, according to Growing Child, the monthly child development newsletter.

A 2½ year old has a well-earned reputation for going to extremes—sometimes shifting without warning from one extreme to the other. Contrary as this may seem to parents, a child has his own reasons for being so changeable.

This is a transitional age. The youngster is just discovering opposites and alternate choices of action. His command of yes and no, come and go, run and stop, give and take, grasp and release, push and pull, attack and retreat is still so evenly balanced that he is as yet unable to decide which way to go.

He is too inexperienced to make a reasonable choice and stick to it.

He can only learn by doing—so he tends to try out all choices.

Sometimes he tries to go both ways at the same time.

Life and his surroundings are so complex and so jammed with a bewildering number of choices that the 2½ year old is almost forced to try both ways, to experience both alternatives, in order to find out which is the right one.

His capacity for voluntary choice is weak. Given a choice between two alternatives, the 2½ year old is apt to insist on both—or neither! This is not stubbornness. He just cannot yet balance the relative advantage of the two choices or even think of just one to the exclusion of the other!

This same quality of all-or-none characterizes his physical abilities. A 2½ year old doesn't yet have good control of opposite sets of muscles. He tends to grasp too strongly, squeeze too tightly, let go too suddenly.

When being very cautious, as in building a tower of blocks, he may place the block carefully, then release it by spreading his fingers very wide. He enjoys building—and knocking down!

The 2½ year old has not learned to relax easily to go to sleep. He may demand a long and complicated bedtime ritual in order to "unwind" for sleep. Once in bed he may talk to himself for some time before falling asleep.

These characteristic behaviors are not equally marked in all children. They are particularly pronounced in very active children, much less conspicuous among more placid children. However, it is relatively normal to show some degree swings between these extremes:

From intense activity to passive quiet, sometimes with thumb sucking.

From boisterousness to shyness.

From a keen desire to possess an object to sudden indifference once he has achieved possession.

From loud demands for food to rejection of the food when offered.

From loud laughter, shrieks and screams to whispering or talking in a low monotone.

From loud demands of "me do it!" to dawdling.

"Management" is better than discipline during this period. Forcing a child into a given course of behavior is apt to bring on a temper tantrum. With a little guile, he can be led to want to do what you desire.

So, love him, enjoy his unpredictability and help him learn during this complex period.

Ole Miss acquires manuscripts

The University of Mississippi reports acquisition of 1,800 pages of invaluable manuscripts and handwritten drafts of William Faulkner's early novels and short stories. Known now as "The Rowan Oak Papers," the documents were acquired from the author's daughter, Jill Faulkner Summer of Charlottesville, Va.

The announcement was made in conjunction with the annual Faulkner Conference, held this month on the Ole Miss campus.

"It has long been our conviction that the true center of Faulkner Studies should be at Ole Miss, in the land that Faulkner's genius immortalized."

The procurement of these valuable papers makes that goal a reality," said Chancellor Porter L. Fortune, who flew to Virginia in July to receive the papers and return them to the University.

Eighty Faulkner enthusiasts, including literary scholars from 10 countries, were on hand for the Aug. 1-6 conference and the official announcement of the acquisition. Conference participants and Faulkner biographer Joseph Blotner said the Rowan Oak Papers will "constitute the keystone of The University of Mississippi Faulkner Collection. No serious scholar needing a comprehensive or inclusive view of his work will be able to do without them."

Throughout the week of seminars, which focused on Faulkner's international appeal, participants in the conference learned of the difficulties involved in translating Faulkner's works, and discussed the Nobel Prize-winning author's reception in nations throughout the world. Speakers presented literary criticism on Faulkner and the challenge of teaching Faulkner in classrooms outside the United States.

Discussing Faulkner's international perspectives were Myriam Diaz-Diocranetz and Jorge Edwards of Chile, Ken-saburo Ohashi of Japan, Samik Bandyopadhyay of India and Hocine Mennaseri of Algeria.

Other foreign scholars included Alexander Vashchenko and Sergei Chakovsky of the Soviet Union, G. M. Gidley of England, Michel Gresset of France, Lothar Honnighausen of Germany, and Agostino Lombardo of Italy.

United States scholars detailing Faulkner's impact on the world were Calvin S. Brown, M. C. Faulkner, Aston Holley, Corrie Jones, William McNeil Reed, William E. Stone, James W. Webb, H. R.

Stoneback, Joseph Blotner and M. Thomas Inge.

In addition to scholarly discourse, the conference offered guided tours of the North Mississippi area including Lafayette County and Oxford, considered to be the models for Faulkner's fictional Yoknapatawpha County and its county seat of Jefferson.

A program of black music and culture drawn from Faulkner's work was presented by Sister Thea. Bowman on the opening night of the conference. Sister Thea was accompanied in her presentation by the University's Black Student Union Choir and the Christian Community Choir of Oxford.

A performance of "The Shadow of the Branch," a two-act play based on Faulkner's writing and philosophy, was also a feature of the conference. The one-man show featured Illinois actor John McCluggage in a dramatic presentation of Faulkner, the man, with excerpts from the author's most famous novels.

Throughout the conference an exhibit of the Faulkner-Commins Archive, which features manuscripts, books and documents from the Louis Daniel Brodsky Collection, was displayed in the University's J. D. Williams Library. Other Faulkner exhibits on campus included photographs of the author's home by Darrel Warren Berry.

The 1982 Faulkner and Yoknapatawpha conference was co-sponsored by the Center for the Study of Southern Culture and the Department of English. The Mississippi Committee for the Humanities, the Ford Foundation, the United States International Communication Agency and the International Research and Exchange Board funded the conference.
